FW14 NOCTURNE COLLECTION is a study of quietness. Subtle tactile shifts, restrained palette and minimal hardware reduce the noise level. Nocturne collection is an exercise in supporting the wearer to speak louder. Retail price for the collection ranges from $385-$520.

CHIYOME is a line of bags and small leather goods, generated through continual structural and material investigation. It is motivated by the challenge of determining balanced solutions. Designer Anna Lynett Moss leads the studio to establish a new standard for creating products through conscientious means. CHIYOME has gained international exposure via press and wholesale partnerships. The company uses primarily leathers sourced locally in New York City, where all designing and manufacturing occurs. The collection's aesthetic is distinguished by the subtle introduction of industrial materials and processes, such as marble, vinyl and powder-coated hardware. The studio's clean and minimalist perspective manifests through sharp lines, subtle color relationships and smart proportions. The company is committed to generating pieces that grow more beautiful with time. www.chiyome.com
